Donors like you proved once again in fiscal year 2011 how much they care for the University of Kansas and The University of Kansas Hospital.

Private gifts reached a new pinnacle of $153.2 million, the fourth year in a row of record private support. These contributions will be counted as part of Far Above: The Campaign for Kansas, which is scheduled for public kickoff in April 2012.

With your gifts, you make it possible for faculty to prepare future leaders and confront the great issues of our time. You help ensure that researchers and physicians can save lives through new discoveries, treatments and cures. You spur discovery and innovation in Kansas and beyond.

Your generosity enabled KU Endowment to provide $112.3 million in support to the university and the hospital, the second highest total in our history. With state financing now covering just 22 percent of KU’s budget, private support is more vital than ever.

We’re proud to report that our Long-term Investment Program experienced solid returns, gaining 22.8 percent over the previous year. The value of our endowment reached $1.25 billion.

On behalf of the entire University of Kansas family, we thank you for your remarkable generosity.

Drue Jennings
Chairman of the Board

Dale Seuferling
President
In fiscal year 2011, we celebrated several milestones, including:

• Fundraising set a record for the fourth consecutive year: $153.2 million, particularly gratifying in the current economic climate. This includes $112.5 million in current gifts and pledges, $39 million in deferred gift commitments, and $1.7 million donated directly to KU.

• Our Long-term Investment Program, which guides the investment of our endowed funds, gained 22.8 percent in value over the previous year.

• We received the largest estate gift in our history: a $32 million bequest from Charles and Mary Jane Spahr to benefit the School of Engineering. Considering gifts made during their lifetimes, the Spahrs gave a total of $45 million, making them among the most generous donors to KU.

• We revised our mission statement to make it more succinct and inspirational:

  KU Endowment partners with donors in providing philanthropic support to build a greater University of Kansas.

Master mason and sculptor Joseph Robaldo Frazee and his son, Vitruvius Frazee, carved 12 fanciful creatures in 1901 and 1902 to be installed on Dyche Hall. Eight remain; three have shields on their chests, bearing the words “Rock Chalk,” “Jayhawk,” and “KU.”
Fundraising: Four consecutive record years

Donors to KU Endowment continued to provide generous support for the university through Fiscal 2011. For the fourth year in a row, total fundraising reached a record high: $153.2 million. That represents a 25 percent rise over last year’s comparable figure, $122.4 million, which was itself a record.

We received donations from 44,949 donors. More than half of our donors reside in Kansas.

"Current gifts and pledges" include outright gifts, pledges and realized bequests and life-income gifts, in accordance with audited financial statements. "Deferred gifts" include documented bequest expectancies and other commitments that will benefit the university in the future.
In Fiscal 2011, KU Endowment’s support for KU totaled $112.3 million, the second-highest amount in our history. KU Endowment remains committed to maintaining the long-term viability of endowed funds to support learning, discovery, public service and patient care, now and into the future.

Private giving through KU Endowment strengthened academic programs across the university and brought top-flight scholars, lecturers and performing artists to the campus. It also funded outreach programs, improving lives and businesses throughout the state, and made possible critical acquisitions by KU’s libraries and museums.

KU Endowment funds virtually all scholarships and fellowships at KU. This year, about 5,800 students received scholarships from KU Endowment funds. KU Endowment supplied more than 88 percent of total funding for KU’s distinguished professors, including 170 with named, endowed positions. Over time, private giving through KU Endowment has provided about two-thirds of campus buildings and about 85 percent of the land available for campus expansion.

Donors also supported patient care at The University of Kansas Hospital. Their generosity provided new state-of-the-art facilities and equipment, new programs, comfort items for patients and families, and educational resources.

Since our founding in 1891, we have provided $1.8 billion in support to the university.

Asset values and allocations

Assets
Marketable securities compose 88 percent of KU Endowment’s total assets; the balance is primarily real estate owned by KU Endowment, loans to KU students and faculty, and outstanding pledges.

Value of total assets — Book value of assets, plus unrealized gain or loss on marketable securities, according to audited financial statements. Excludes unrealized appreciation of real estate and other special holdings.*

Market value of total assets — Includes unrealized appreciation of real estate and other special holdings.*

Market value of endowment — Reported in accordance with the Standards of the National Association of College and University Business Officers.

* Unrealized appreciation of real estate and other special holdings is not audited and is not recorded on the Statement of Financial Position.

Asset allocations
The Long-term Investment Program is designed to maximize returns and minimize volatility. It is diversified both by asset class and within asset classes.

Seeking increased diversification and enhanced returns, the KU Endowment Investment Committee has gradually increased allocations to international equities, inflation protection and alternative investments. Alternatives include investment strategies intended to produce consistent returns, with less volatility than the overall market.
Investment philosophy and objectives

Investing for now and the future
KU Endowment invests endowed funds and other long-term funds collectively in our Long-term Investment Program, which includes almost 3,200 individual fund accounts. The value of these funds makes up 74 percent of KU Endowment’s total assets.

The FY 2011 return for the Long-term Investment Program was 22.8 percent. Primary drivers of performance were U.S. common stocks and inflation protection assets, with small-cap stocks and energy the top-performing allocations. Fixed-income investments, both domestic and international, generally lagged in performance. Global equity markets have become increasingly volatile in the face of significant unresolved macroeconomic issues. The liquidity and diversification of our endowment portfolio have allowed us to maintain quality positions and avoid being a forced seller during periods of market disruption.

Performance objectives
Over the long term, the absolute objective is to achieve a total return that meets or exceeds the rate of inflation, measured by the Consumer Price Index, plus the Long-term Investment Program’s total spending rate. The relative objective is to achieve a total return that meets or exceeds a combined benchmark of capital market indices, weighted according to the portfolio’s target asset allocation. This chart shows the total return for the portfolio since the inception of performance measurement in June 1988.

Our mission and core values

KU Endowment partners with donors in providing philanthropic support to build a greater University of Kansas.

Our core values:

Passion for KU — The generosity of alumni and friends influences the very fabric of KU, helping the university advance the frontiers of knowledge. We are dedicated to serving the university and helping it achieve its aspirations.

Partnership with donors — Our donors empower us to accomplish our mission. We pledge to faithfully administer their gifts, adhere to their philanthropic intentions and respect their requests for privacy.

Perpetual support — The long-term vitality of KU represents our ultimate, unwavering goal. We strive to wisely invest funds and steward property, with the goal of achieving the greatest possible assurance of long-term financial support for the university.

People-centered approach — Our team of employees, trustees and volunteers guides our present and shapes our future. We seek to attract and develop the best talent, value each individual’s unique contributions and celebrate diversity as a strength.

Produced by the Communications and Marketing department of KU Endowment

KU Endowment remains committed to building a greater university, and we strive to preserve donors’ investments and use them as prudently as possible. Consequently, this report is printed on less expensive paper and contains fewer pages than previous reports. In addition, in lieu of printing a separate Chancellors Club Roll of Honor, it includes a list of the members of the Mount Oread, Outlook and Hill Societies (pages 9 – 12).
